| WHY IS IT A GOOD PRACTICE?  | Education providers are gearing up their programmes and face the problem of determining what services to prioritise, how to ensure they are delivered in an effective but culturally sensitive way and how to quickly train the staff who will deliver them. Through focused use of these tools this project aims to enable service providers to improve collaborative planning and coordination of education activities, increase the ability of educators to deliver effective, personalised and culturally sensitive education and develop an innovative learning framework that provides refugees with opportunities for knowledge and skills development in the areas most needed for a successful transition into a new life |
